Starting from the Bald Rock Creek Day Use Area on Pyramids Road, Girraween National Park, this walk takes you to The Junction and back via The Junction Walk. This relatively easy walk explores the banks of Bald Rock Creek in the northern section of Girraween National Park, leading to its junction with Ramsay Creek. The walk initially follows the creek past the Bald Rock Creek Campground, then crosses the creek on stepping stones before heading along The Junction Track. The walk continues across bare granite along the northern bank of Bald Rock Creek, following the creek downstream to its junction with Ramsay Creek, passing several rock pools and granite boulders. At the point where the two creeks meet, walkers will find an excellent swimming hole that is a popular swimming spot in summer. A variety of wildlife, birds and reptiles can be seen along the way, and in spring, there are stunning displays of colourful wildflowers. This walk consists of wide, mostly flat walking trails, with uneven natural surfaces, compacted natural surfaces, rocky surfaces and creek crossings, suitable for average fitness levels. Let us begin by acknowledging the Traditional Custodians of the land on which we travel today, and pay our respects to their Elders past and present.
