Easy track

Starting from the car park at the end of Flinders Parade, Middleton Beach, this walk takes you along the Ellen Cove Boardwalk, then to the Port of Albany and back. Commencing at Ellen Cove, a gently sloping boardwalk climbs the hillside, providing incredible views of the King George Sound. The boardwalk transitions to a bitumen path wrapping around Mount Adelaide into Ataturk Channel, arriving finally at the port, where you can head into town or return the same way you came. There are many interesting features dotted along the way, including lookouts, historic buildings, old WWII army bunkers and monuments to past leaders and explorers. At certain times of the year, whales can be seen in the bay. The historic elements complement the absolutely stunning natural scenery, making this one of the best ways to experience the coastline of Albany and immerse yourself in its rich history. The multi-use pathway is a mixture of wooden boardwalk and bitumen path, equally enjoyable whether walking, jogging or cycling. It is also accessible for prams and wheelchair users with assistance. Dogs are permitted on the path only and must be kept on a leash at all times. Let us begin by acknowledging the Minang/Menang Noongar people, Traditional Custodians of the land on which we travel today, and pay our respects to their Elders past and present.

Getting started: From the car park at the end of Flinders Parade, Middleton Beach, head along the paved path next to the grassy area, keeping the beach to your left. Follow the paved path between the Three Anchors restaurant/cafe and the playground, passing a toilet and shower block and a terraced amphitheatre shortly ahead (to your right). Once you reach the jetty, head along the Ellen Cove Boardwalk and continue the walk from Ellen Cove to the Port of Albany.

Start.

Find the car park at the start.

Find the toilet at the start.

Turn right, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 45 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk. Keep left.

After another 50 m pass the playground (9 m on your left).

After another 15 m pass the "Three Anchors" (15 m on your right).

After another 85 m pass the toilet (15 m on your right).

Then find the "Ellen Cove" (65 m on your left). Sheltered from the largest waves by the islands and headlands of King George Sound, Ellen Cove is a beautiful nook at the southern end of Middleton Beach. Don't forget to appreciate the ocean views from the extremely scenic jetty, and check out the Ellen Cove Boardwalk if you have time. Picnic benches, toilets, showers, a children's playground, a cafe & restaurant are all tucked safely in Ellen Cove. Children enjoy jumping into the calm, protected waters and swimming to the nearby floating pontoon, placed there during the summer months. There is also a delightful terraced amphitheatre where you can picnic in the shade overlooking the beach.

After another 25 m pass the water tap (7 m on your left).

After another 3 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 370 m come to the viewpoint (20 m on your left).

After another 140 m come to the viewpoint (8 m on your right).

After another 95 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 160 m pass the car park (35 m on your right).

Start of an optional side trip: This little side trip takes you to the Rotary Lookout where you can get great southeasterly views of the ocean.

To start this optional side trip turn right here. Start.

After 40 m find the "Rotary Lookout" (15 m on your right).

The lookout is a popular spot for visitors, offering uninterrupted panoramic views of the King George Sound. One plaque describes the landmarks and islands visible in the distance, while another plaque commemorates Kemal Atatürk, the Turkish Field Marshall who led the Turkish forces that fought the Australian and New Zealand troops at Gallipoli. The elevated site is a popular whale-watching spot from May to November. Both humpback and southern right whales are often spotted during their annual migration to the Southern Ocean. If lucky, you can see these glorious animals, even from up-close. Coin-operated binoculars are provided to give the best views.

After another 25 m come to the end.

Turn around and retrace your steps back the 60 m to the main route.

Back at the main route continue straight and follow on from the 980 m waypoint.

Continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 160 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 85 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

Start of an optional side trip: This side trip takes you to the Point King Lighthouse Ruins.

To start this optional side trip turn sharp left here. Start.

After another 100 m come to "Point King Lighthouse Ruins".

Situated on the northern entrance to Princess Royal Harbour, the Point King Lighthouse was built in 1858 in the hopes of bringing more ships to the port. It was the very second lighthouse built on the West Australian coastline. The original dwelling comprised of four rooms divided as two on either side of a central hallway. From 1858 to 1911, the resident light housekeepers and their families tended the light each evening. Nothing survives of the original wooden light tower, which stood in the centre of the southern wall overlooking entry to Princess Royal Harbour. The ruins present an ideal photographic opportunity to capture the rugged coastline of King George Sound and the rich maritime history of Western Australia's first settlement.

The end.

Turn around and retrace your steps back the 100 m to the main route.

Back at the main route continue straight and follow on from the 1.8 km waypoint.

After another 220 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 35 m pass the man_made|lighthouse (15 m on your right).

After another 60 m find the "Atatürk Monument" (15 m on your right).

The Atatürk Monument is a statue dedicated to Mustafa Kemal Atatürk, the founding father and first President of the Republic of Turkey. The channel leading into Princess Harbour was officially named "Atatürk Channel" in 1985, and Turkey officially named the beach that Australian and New Zealand soldiers landed "Anzac Cove". Later on, in 2002, a statue of Mustafa Kemal Atatürk was raised. The words on the base of the monument read "Peace at Home, Peace in the World." Just below the memorial is a covered lookout overlooking Atatürk Channel.

After another 490 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 80 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

After another 160 m continue straight, to head along Ellen Cove Boardwalk.

Continue another 150 m to find the end. Then turn around here and retrace the main route for 2.7 km to get back to the start.
